This study is an effort to realize the challenge given in 2006 to pastoralist stakeholders in Tanzania by the UN Special Rapporteur Professor Rodolfo Stavenhagen on the rights and situation of Indigenous peoples, where he argued on the necessity of developing options for securing livelihoods in the face of loss of basic resources.

Here the authors present options for Pastoralist livelihoods in terms of current state policies, legal status and economic prospects. The study is commissioned by CORDS, PWC, IIED, MMM Ngaramtoni Centre, TNRF and UCRT. It has been funded by CORDAID, TROCAIRE, Ireland Aid and the Wildlife Conservation Society AHEAD Programme. However views expressed herein are solely those of the authors.

Preface

This is Volume Two of the Report entitled "A Study On Options For Pastoralists To Secure Their Livelihoods In Tanzania.", commissioned by CORDS, PWC, IIED, MMM Ngaramtoni Centre, TNRF and UCRT. The study is funded by CORDAID, TROCAIRE, Ireland Aid and the Wildlife Conservation Society AHEAD Programme.

Volume I comprises the Main Report which is condensed from these Individual Reports. The Policy component is covered by Prof. Mattee and Dr. Walsh's papers. The Legal component by Dr. Tenga and Dr. Mvungi's papers and, lastly, the Economic component by Prof. Mdoe and Raymond Mnenwa's Report.

The Team felt that, in order to give a thorough foundation for action and debate that would flow from its recommendations, the circulation of the detailed papers is proper and necessary. This is done in the present volume.

It should be noted however that Dr. Walsh's Report and that of Prof. Mdoe and Mnenwa have been separately published by TNRF and their inclusion here as appendices is through the kind permission of TNRF.
